Displacing Parlor, Bedroom and Bath

The revolution in American arts that for the past decade has held the East in its grip and rocked Broadway's dramatic traditions almost to the foundation, has brought about numerous innovations, not the least of which is the Little Theatre—soon we trust to become a national institution.

Provincetown, a fishing village on the New England coast, takes credit for originating the idea, which has grown so rapidly in popular favor that scarcely a town in the United States today is without some sort of neighborhood playhouse. Some, like Detroit, have become so enthusiastic over the project that they have a theatre in every other block, different communities not only vying with one another but exchanging their plays and players for mutual benefit.

The popularity of the movement is readily analyzed. From earliest days the stage has been a form of stimulating diversion. But the advent of the movies, with their low prices and large variety, caught the tide of public favor and swept it away from the spoken drama. Theatres all over the country were obliged to close, and the young playwright looked about hopelessly for a market for his wares. Then came the Little Theatre—a dramatic workshop wherein all sorts of radical ideas in scenery as well as play-writing might be tried out.

Shakespeare said, "All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players." He might have added that the play-acting instinct that is in every one of us is not satisfied with the particular role handed out to us at birth. We all long to play other parts, to put off our own individuality for a short while and essay that of some other mortal. Until the advent of the Little Theatre these aspirations in most of us were doomed never to be satisfied. But with the neighborhood playhouse in full swing, even grandma may have a long deferred opportunity of expressing herself through some other medium than housework without leaving her fireside.

Not only has the Little Theatre supplied an opportunity for acting, it has opened up the way for the young playwright—the unknown author who with the old regime might never hope to see his play produced. Eugene O'Neil, now recognized as one of the foremost American dramatics, is one of the products of the Provincetown players. Some of his earliest work was produced on the little fishing wharf stage at Provincetown.

The Washington Square Players of Greenwich Village—the art center of the East—have made themselves and the village known all over the country. Stuart Walker's Pormanteau Theatre, the Harvard, 47 Workshop—all have done their share in awakening the people's interest to the potentialities of the new movement.

But while the East has been gaining recognition with its Little Theatres, the West also has been developing the same idea. The Cap and Bells of San Francisco, and also Maitland's Little Theatre there, the Mountain Theatre at Mt. Tamalpais, the Forest Theatre of Carmel, wherein such plays as Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra," the Serra play for which the community of Carmel sent to the dramatic center of the East for its leading character, and the Hollywood Bowl wherein the world-famous Passion Play was staged, all testify the West's participation.

Carmel has long been known as the art center of the Pacific Coast. Its population is largely made up of artists and writers, people of keen intellectual development who are always in the vanguard of any new movement. Years ago they began the custom of little parlor plays which they called Comedias, and which through the spirit of artistic co-operation has developed into the Arts and Crafts organization. This in turn has been outgrown and now funds are being raised to equip a real Little Theatre with all the modern innovations of stage craft, in which not only the word and letter

Twelfth Night at Pine Inn Is Gala Festival

By Susan Creighton Porter

THERE was a moment at the Twelfth Night party at Pine Inn last Saturday—at dinner, after the Lord of Misrule had made his festive entrance, and the smiling lad who carried the boar's head had led the procession among the tables, and the pretty wassail maidens had begun their gracious task, and the candle-lights and the dusky shadows were making the room beautiful—a moment when Frederick MacMurray's violin suddenly gave forgetfulness of ourselves. Every face grew soft and wondering and kind; we looked, and loved each other; we forgave even ourselves; we started fresh. And it came again, such another moment of liberation, at the end of the play, when Feste's song went dying off into the distance and we sat for an instant in silence before sense of self and time and place came flooding back and moved ~~hands to applause~~.

Two moments of the liberation that comes through loveliness—that's rich treasure in these hurried days. But how much went to making those moments possible for us we shall never know. Mr. Jordan's big generous hospitality—all honor to him and the thanks of all who dream of the Little Theater—Mrs. Gordon's careful planning, the twining of the boughs and the roasting of the beef more than we who sat there to enjoy it can ever guess, had gone to give us such an evening.

So we were in good play-going humor as we settled down before that improvised stage, with its stunning black and white hangings—the smartest modern Elizabethan simplicity, and we entered with deep sub-conscious satisfaction into the "let's pretend" mood that such a setting demands. Shakespeare would have felt quite at ease on such a stage, though a Belasco setting might frighten him. Here all was easy and happy; fancy waved a wand—"let this be so"—and it was so. One or another of those enchanting little devils of pages pulled out a bench for the Countess to sit on, and we saw an anteroom; or white bars behind the parted curtains and Malvolio's voice speaking through them made a dungeon. Why not? We, the audience, are ready enough to play, too, if you give us half a chance.

Half a chance, and just a touch of the authentic thrill to send a shiver down our spines and prick our souls awake. And that night the thrill was there. Somehow it came over—in Sir Toby's laughter, in Sir Andrew's futile pomposity, in Maria's sauciness. Malvolio got it in some sudden gesture, Olivia in her drooping loveliness, Feste in the strangest quality of wistful April in his voice and suggestion of endless sadness behind his fooling. Somehow the thrill was there, and it came to us and made us glad.

It was fresh and gay and dewy as a handful of wild flowers, that handful of Twelfth Night scenes, but we have glimpsed the hours of hard work that made it live, and we tender to Producer Heron and the players more than our thanks—our deep recognition.

Then came the dance, colorful and gay, and the last good wishes, and then, as the little girl next me said sadly, "It's all over." All over, and the year will run its round, and Twelfth Night will come again. Perhaps the impetus given by Mr. Jordan to our community will have grown strong. Perhaps we are establishing a tradition. Perhaps Carmel will have another festival to enrich its calendar.

The Pine Cone acknowledges its debt to the committee for a list of guests at the Twelfth Night Festival

Alberto Concert is Next Musical Event

A treat is in store for peninsula music lovers. Next Friday night, at Arts and Crafts hall, David Alberto, pianist, will give an impressive and well prepared program. A Steinway grand has been secured for the occasion. Already there has been a splendid sale and a crowded auditorium is assured. Tickets may be secured at the Palace Drug Store, Carmel.

The event is one to look eagerly forward to, not one to prophesy about; even the intimate friends of a musician, who hear him play from time to time, cannot tell what his music will bring to them when it is brought out in the larger sphere of a public audience, especially when that audience is both sympathetic and musically intelligent. Music is as strange and subtle as the soul in things, and while it is ever the same, it is never the same; it varies with the player and with the hearer, and so there is always the element that makes for surprise and delight and adventure. This is perhaps one reason why the great musicians can be heard any number of times and still be new; this is where the creative enters in interpretative work. The player knows this; rarely the audience. Nevertheless, the give and take is always there.

To remember Alberto's power and skill, to remember how many true lovers of music there are in Carmel, is to set the stage of one's mind for a quite wonderful performance.

Gordon Davis on Big Time in the Land of the Yellow Jacket

Astor House Hotel,
Shanghai,

December 12, 1922.

Dear Mr. Overstreet: This is just a line to let you and the Carmel folk know that I am thinking of you all this holiday season. Holidays have always meant Carmel to me and I miss it. China seems and is a very long way off. You may know that I have taken a year's leave of absence from Stanford and am traveling with the T. Daniel Frawley company and Adele Blood through the Orient and India. We have a fine company and doing very excellent plays. Hawaii, Japan and China have been fascinating, and now we are looking forward to India, Ceylon and Java, after playing a few weeks in Manila. We expect to be back some time next summer. I hope in time for the Carmel plays. The Chinese theatres bring back memories of "The Yellow Jacket," but how sadly they lack the beauty of that very lovely production. I am enjoying every minute of my time in the Far East but it takes a trip like this to make me long to get back to my work at Stanford and to the happy vacation times at Carmel. Lester Seib is with me and joins in wishing the Pine Cone a very happy new year, and may it be the best year ever for Carmel.

Sincerely,

of the play, but the psychology of color, movement, line and light will be carried out.

The Missiontown Players of Carmel, directed by David Brainard Gally, gave a most delightful program in Hotel Del Monte recently, which they were enabled to do by means of their own portable scenic and lighting equipment. The T. and D. management have now invited the Missiontown Players to repeat their performance at the Monterey Theatre, next Monday. This invitation to "visit round," as it were, with a program of easily staged one-act plays, is like the exchange of Southern California's neighborhood playhouses, in which Ann Dare is interested, and is part of the gigantic scheme now on foot to weld the East and West in a national Little Theatre movement.

Efficient Service Goes With Cement Paving

That the Portland Cement Association is not through with a contract after cement has been specified for a job is evident by the presence here this week of Mason J. Schlosser, field engineer of the association.

Schlosser, as well as Contractor Ruthven is desirous that the Ocean Avenue improvement be a first-class job in every respect, every specification as to survey, elevation, materials and thickness and proportion of mixture being strictly adhered to.

But—and this is important—the completed work cannot be first-class if humans, dogs and horses are permitted to walk on the concrete before it is set, which requires fourteen days.

What a relief it will be to drivers who come into Carmel on the slippery asphalt of San Carlos Highway when they strike the unsurfaced, non-skid concrete of the new Ocean avenue.

A. W. Pooley, piano and organ tuner, is on the Peninsula for a week or two. Orders may be left at the Pine Cone office or the Palace Drug store.

The Pine Cone can handle that job of printing for you at the right price.

Then of course, there is a fuzz.

DASHING HIS HOPE

Thin Boarder—We're going to have a feast tonight. I heard Mrs. Hammond-Egge telephoning for one extra slice of beef liver.

Dyspeptic Boarder—Forget it. She's just taken in three new boarders.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Her Dad—What am I to presume your income will be at the time you expect to marry?
Futur—Well—I hardly like to put a figure on your generosity, sir.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Mrs. Romaine Hunkins and son Byron are here from Fresno.

Frank Hepple, a garage man of Salinas, was a Carmel visitor Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blethen left on Thursday noon for San Francisco. They will be home tomorrow.

Harrison Godwin and Leonard W. Perry motored to San Francisco on Thursday evening on a business trip.

The lot on Ocean Avenue, between Curtis' store and the Hand building, has been purchased by Delos Curtis.

Cards sent out with sample ballots for the election on January 30 designate the voting place as the city hall. The former city hall is meant, not the new one on Dolores street.

The savings bank account of the Carmel Boys' club, reported in the Pine Cone last week, was not complete, owing to the absence of several of the boys. The total is $750. These are the individual accounts of the boys, which they are encouraged to save to inculcate habits of thrift and over which the club has no control.

Twelfth Night Flashes

The strictures provoked by the Volstead Act brought out conspicuously Rev. G. M. Dorwart's delineation of the character of Sir Toby Belch, the jolly old fellow with a "jag."

"Gad Zooks!" but those two kids, Billy Argo and Billy Heron are some actors. We're real optimists for the coming generation.

The hearty "hand" that Joe Jefferson Hand received during the dinner was a deserved tribute. Bless his dear old heart.

"As the 'Lord of Misrule' Jo Mora was a most impressive 'Hamlet,' remarked a jolly Englishman.

The appetites of most of the men were not in the least diminished by failure to wear dinner coats.

That back-flop of Bert Heron's while Malvolio was being bunked was not on the program, but it certainly put comedy in the scene.

Tom Cator at the piano, with his lilting melodies, put everybody in the folk-song state of mind.

When John Jordan, as Aguecheek, danced, he sure swung a tricky leg. And this with his manifold duties as host.

Blanche Tolmie was always the dignified, highbred lady. In costume and demeanor she fitted the part admirably.

Constance Heron did an impressive bit in her role of putting up a job on the love-sick Malvolio.

Someone one was unkind enough to remark, "Well, at last they have Tom Fisher behind the bars!" That's what he gets for fooling with dynamite.

At whatsoever hour the dinner shall bee done, the Lorde of Misrule will lead the guests from the dining-hall into the main court, and therupon will bee enacted a stage-piece entitled

Malvolio

Or, What You Wille

A most pleasaunt and excellent comedie of the riche Countess Olivia and her steward Malvolio, with divers embranglements caused by Olivia's bibulous uncle, Sir Toby Belch, and his fantastic friend, Sir Andrew Aguecheek, together with Feste, the fool, and the sprightly maid Maria, written by Master William Shakespeare, and originally acted by the Lorde Chamberlaines servants, before her majestie and elsewhere, with much matter now omitted, under the title of Twelfth Night.

Arranged for this particular occasion by Master Herbert Heron and acted by the Lorde Mayors servants from the compaine of the Artes and Craftes, sojourning for the one evening at the Sign of the Pine. Hangman, to thy task!

The Characters of the Comedie

The Countess Olivia	Mistress Blanche Tolmie
Maria, her woman	Mistress Constance Heron
Malvolio, her steward	Master Thomas Fisher
Feste, her foole	Master Herbert Heron
Sir Toby Belch	Master George Dorwart
Sir Andrew Aguecheek	Master John Jordan

Huskie Scene Shifters: Bill Argo, Bill Heron

The production designed and staged by Master Herbert Heron

The especial thankes of the producer, the committee in charge, and of the Artes and Craftes Theatre bee due:

To Mistress Helena Conger for making the curtains wherewith to screene the players and for supervising the cutting and sewing of the doublets, gownes and other habiliments wherein also much labour did falie her waye—

To Mistress Brewer, Mistress Dennis, Mistress Dorwart, Mistress Johnson, Mistress Jordan, and Mistress Offley for aid with the needles, thread and sheares

To Mistress Consince Heron for drawing the plates for the costumes—

To Doctor Alfred Burton for making the properties used in the action of the piece—

To Master Richard Johnson for operating the flood-lights and the lights that spotte—

To Master Thomas Vincent Cator for his gentle touch upon the harpsichorde whenas the pages sette the scenes—

To Mistress Mae Harris Anson, Mistress Rhoda Johnson, and Mistress Isabel Logie for general aide—

To the spirit of Master William Shakespeare for not coming to rehearsals—

And lastlie to the audience, that payeth to beholde
Our masquerading and pretence and errors manifolde;
And cruell critics of the presse, whom we would gladlie pay
To donne their finest evening dresse and then remaine away.

At whatsoever time the play shalle bee finished, the Lorde of Misrule will conduct the guests againe into the spacious dining-halle, and coffee will bee served.

Thereafter will the musicians play merrie tunes to move the feete of the guests untill such time as the masquallers shall become weary and their hearts yearn for home.

These things being done, the Lorde of Misrule will doffe his crowne, and the feastes of Twelfe Night, like all inventions of this worlde, shalle come to an ende.

Laus Deo!

Every business concern in Carmel should be represented at the meeting at the city hall, Thursday, January 18, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of completing the organization of a Carmel chamber of commerce.

WOULD THERE WERE MORE LOCKES

"The Tale of Triona," by W. J. Locke, sparkles with delightful Locke light banter and cheer. The plot is negligible as Locke plots are, capable of being recounted in one sentence: A young and fascinating woman inherits a fortune and falls in love with a genius with a past, but must suffer through that past and even skirt the brink of disaster before she achieves the sunlit spaciousness of a Locke happy-ever-after. Locke enjoys his chagrins quite as usual. He enjoys his background of people and things. He delights in the touches of beauty in lineament and clothing with which he decorates his pages. He lures the half-conscious reader chuckling along, chuckling even when breathless, and finally leaves him with a happy sigh on his lips and a wonder when the next Locke volume will be out.

I didn't use to like Locke, but I'm thoroughly converted to him now. One sleeps so peacefully after an evening with one of his stories. And one is conscious for several days thereafter of a bit of a good luck recently met in that beautiful evening with his novel. For Locke enjoys his audience even as he enjoys his make-believe people, and it's a pleasant memory for a few unsuspecting days to have been enjoyed.

ANOTHER NOVEL BY AN ENGLISH AUTHOR

I have just read "The Head of the House of Coombe," by Frances Hodgson Burnett, and place a note in these columns that it's pleasant reading. The plot is sufficiently involved to present surprises. Several of the people make charming acquaintances: There's a fine Scotch lad, and an excellent enigmatic English gentleman, and a fascinating dowager. And one is made to believe in types of existence that seem barely possible at first but grow convincing as one lives a few hundred pages with them. "The Head of the House of Coombe" is one more of the host of books good for Carmel reading that our library supplies.

Traffic was blocked, practically the entire population of Carmel crowded Ocean avenue in the vicinity of the Pine Cone office, massive light making machinery and projecting equipment were on the ground, and everybody who got a chance talked with Lon Chaney, Grace De La Motte and Harrison Ford.

The foregoing, in brief, is a story of the day spent here several months ago by the Metro company's force in filming local scenes for "Shadows," the screen version of "Ching Chong Chinaman."

The picture was shown for the first time in Monterey at the Strand Theater last night and will be on again to-night.

Books, pamphlets, programs, business forms, are printed by the Pine Cone Press.

Phone Extensions and Improvements

Confirming an article in the Pine Cone about two months ago, concerning improved local telephone service, large spools of cable are now lying along the Carmel-Monterey hill road awaiting stringing on old and new poles.

Manager F. A. Edwards of the telephone company has announced that something like $30,000 will be expended in improving and extending the service in Carmel, Pebble Beach and Carmel Highlands.

A petition was circulated in Carmel last week asking for the establishment of an independent local exchange, but it is not likely that this will come about at present, principally for the reason that most phone patrons do not desire the other cities on the peninsula to be "long distance," with the expense that entails.

Carmel Valley Fruit Growers Have Profitable Pear Season

The Carmel Valley Fruit Growers' Association held its third annual meeting last week. The following directors were elected for the coming year: S. W. Ollason, Roy Martin, Mrs. M. B. Rhodes, C. L. Ingles and B. H. Schulte.

Records show that 11,970 boxes of pears were shipped during the year through the California Fruit Exchange and that they were marketed in New York for $33,000. While the net returns were not quite as high as during the 1921 season, they were very satisfactory.

Reports indicate that pears sold under the Carmel Valley brand averaged higher than many other brands.

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY OF THE STATE PURSUANT TO SECTION 387 OF THE POLITICAL CODE.

Office of the Tax Collector of the County of Monterey, State of California.

Whereas, on the 16th day of December, 1922, there was received by me and recorded in my office, a written authorization under the hand and seal of the Controller of the State of California, which said authorization was and is in words and figures following:

NOTICE

Controller's Department, State of California. To the Tax Collector of the County of Monterey, State of California:

Whereas, a deed or deeds conveying to the people of the State of California the title to the property hereinafter described having heretofore been filed in the Controller's office of the State of California;

And, whereas, said deed or deeds recite the fact that said property hereinafter described was sold to the people of the State of California for the non-payment of state and county taxes;

And, whereas, five years have elapsed since the date of said sale, and no redemption, according to law, has been made of said property, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the law in such case made and provided, I, Ray L. Riley, Controller of the State of California, by virtue of the authority in me vested by the laws of this State, do by these presents authorize, empower, and direct you, the said Tax Collector, to sell at public auction, in separate lots or parcels, the property herein-after described.

The property above referred to, and hereby authorized to be sold, is situate, lying and being in the County of Monterey, State of California, bounded and particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Property sold to the State, June 24th, 1907, for taxes of 1906—

Lot 9, Block 67, as per map of Carmelito.

Deed No. 76.

Property sold to the State, June 27, 1908, for taxes of 1907—

Carmel City, Lots 1 to 4, Block 19.

Deed No. 150.

Carmel City, Lots 5 to 8, Block 19.

Deed No. 151.

No bid shall be received or accepted at such sale for less than the amount of all the taxes levied upon such property, and all costs and penalties for every year delinquent as shown by the delinquent rolls for said years and also all tax liens up to the date of the execution of the deed to the State, together with interest at seven per cent per annum and also the graduate redemption penalties required under Section 387 of Political Code computed upon the aggregate amount of the taxes for each of said years from the first day of July following delinquency to the date of the sale hereunder, and all expenses accrued to the date of the sale under this authorization.

Said sale shall be conducted in all respects as by law governing such sales.

(Seal.)

Given under my hand and seal of office, at Sacramento, this 14 day of December, A. D. 1922.

By C. E. COOPER, Deputy.

Therefore, in pursuance of law, public notice is hereby given that I will on Thursday, February 1st, 1923, at the hour of 1:30 p. m., in the County Tax Collector's office, in the Court House in said Salinas City, County of Monterey, State of California, sell in separate lots or parcels at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, the said property hereinbefore in said Controller's authorization described, which said authorization is hereby made a part of this notice, to-wit:

EARLY START INSURES GREATER SUCCESS

Notwithstanding the hurried and more or less unorganized manner in which last year's local May Day affair was carried on, Carmelites will recall what a success the whole thing was. The affair should be held again this year, and in order to excel the last event and make more attractive to resident and visitor the 1923 celebration, it is suggested that the present is none too early to begin laying plans.

With the assistance of the business people's organization, recently formed, the May Day frolic, under whatever auspices it is given, will come to be an outstanding and widely known event.

But the measure of success depends much on early initial plans.

ADEQUATE FUNDS FOR FOREST FIRE PROTECTION

President Harding has said that the protection and perpetuation of our forests are vital to our continued industrial welfare and national strength, and to our individual health, comfort and prosperity. This is just as true of California as it is of Maine, and there is no other problem which today deserves more serious consideration by the citizens of this State.

California's forestry problem is a vital one, and one which the State administration must squarely face. To date, through the co-operation of State and Federal forestry authorities and private lumbering and business interests, considerable progress has been made, especially in the protection of timberlands from fire. But much still remains to be done along this and many other lines if our forests are to be preserved through wise use for all time. The friends of forestry, and all citizens with the interests of the State at heart, will demand that no backward step be taken in the conservation of this great natural resource of California, by providing the funds to protect the forest cover from ruinous fires.

In a letter received from a traveling companion of Miss M. Carey Thomas, former president of Bryn Mawr College, a princess, if not the empress, of Feminism, relates that:

Miss Thomas is now making a grand tour, feeling that a real holiday is due after her many years of service. It is her custom to read during meals, proping her book in front of her, ignoring her table companions entirely if the book holds her interest. One evening last summer she was thus engaged with "This Freedom" while dining at a restaurant in Constantinople. She was silent during the greater part of the meal, reading steadily. Finally she came to the end, closed the book and looked around the room. "Waiter!" she called in a determined voice. "The man hastened to her side. "Throw this book in the Bosporus," said Miss Thomas."

John Nelson, 71, painter and traveler, died at Maxwell, Cal., last week. One of his paintings hung in the rotunda of the State Capitol at Sacramento for several years, while another is in the art gallery of Stanford University.

Nelson was a native of Sweden, but ran away to go to sea at the age of twelve. In 1880 he went to San Francisco and later went to Virginia City.

Splashes and Splutter

Ben Greet, who is to appear in the United States next spring in a repertoire of Shakespearean plays, has cabled that he will add "The Tempest" to his group.

Herbert Grimwood, who played the leading role in Garnet Holmes' "Serra" last summer at the Forest Theatre, is in New York with Faversham and is playing the Duke of Morocco in "The Merchant of Venice."

The San Jose League of Pen Women have called for plays to be submitted. It is required that not more than an hour and a half must be necessary in the production and that the stage requirements should be simple. Manuscripts should be mailed to Miss Margerie Fisher.

The Laguna Beach Community Players, of which Madam Ann Dare is the director, are receiving numerous invitations to appear in other

California cities. A plan is afoot to organize a circuit embracing Santa Ana, San Juan Capistrano and Laguna Beach, in which an exchange of plays may be arranged.

Two former Carmel residents — authors — Theodore S. Solomon and T. Samson Miller, were attracted here by the Twelfth Night Festival, and entered thoroughly into the spirit and enjoyment of the affair.

In a late number of Adventure appears one of Fred Bechdolt's stories of the old west, called "The Last of the Open Ranges." It has to do with cattle-raising in old Wyoming, and, like all this writer's stories, it is based on fact and has plenty of sentiment thrown in for good measure.

The reading of two plays — "The Portrait of Tierno," by Zoe Atkins, and "Unconquered Worlds," by Susan Glaspell, was the motif for a gathering at the McDuffie home recently. Not the least interesting part of the evening's entertainment was the discussion of the plays after the reading.

$1,441,486 A YEAR'S DISASTER RELIEF COST

Red Cross Aided 145,000 Victims in United States—Losses Total $30,000,000.

Seventy-two disasters, with hundreds reported killed and injured, and more than 145,000 either homeless or requiring assistance, called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,441,486.86 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, according to a statement based on the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. The greatest toll of life was taken by hurricane and tornado, while the overflowing of rivers, the breaking of dams and torrential rains drove the greatest number of people from their homes. The property loss was estimated at more than $30,000,000.

The year's disasters reported included twenty-six floods, nineteen tornadoes, fifteen fires, four epidemics, two theatre collapses, two shipwrecks (one an airship), and a bridge collapse, mine explosion, railway collision, and a drought. Of the floods in the United States that at San Antonio, Texas, caused the greatest property loss, $6,000,000 and the high mark of fatalities, 100, while the flood in the vicinity of Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss., forced 31,000 persons from their homes.

A National Calamity

In the Red Cross disaster relief records there will probably remain for many years one calamity which touched nearly every state with a sense of horror and of loss. This was the distressing collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre in Washington, D. C., resulting in ninety-six deaths and 125 persons injured. Situated in the center of the beautiful Northwest residential section, this motion picture theatre was patronized by many persons of prominence both in the official and civil life of the National Capital, whose family and personal connections radiated out over the entire country. The horror was intensified by a terrific snowstorm which, though it retarded, did not block Red Cross relief.

Airship Crash Finds Aid at Hand

The crash and destruction of the U. S. Army's large airship Roma in Virginia last February with the loss of 34 officers and men and 11 injured was the first disaster of its kind to call for Red Cross relief in this country. The suddenness of the accident tested the preparedness of the organization and of the Chapter at Hampton, Va., but the response was immediate and relief furnished the survivors, also funds for the expenses of relatives of the dead, who came from long distances to claim their own.

In the year's oversea record for aid rendered by the Red Cross are two fires in the Philippines, one in Manila, which destroyed 1,000 homes, with a loss of $1,500,000 and 5,000 persons made homeless; the other at Tondo, which drove 8,000 from their dwellings. In medical relief that was quick and effective the smallpox epidemic in San Domingo, which had a total of 22,000 cases with 225 deaths in a single day, tested the readiness of the Red Cross for action, and the same can be said of the San Domingo hurricane, which killed 12 persons and reduced the homes of 182 persons to wreckage. A flood in San Salvador, with a death toll of 50 and 2,000 refugees, was also effectively handled by the local Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Big S. F. Shipper Wants Competition

W. H. Ford Says Rail Divorce Will Not Mean Higher Rate

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—William H. Ford, president of the Niles Sand and Gravel Company with headquarters at 704 Market Street here, one of the largest shippers of gravel and sand in the State, today announced himself as being in favor of the unmerger of the Central Pacific-Southern Pacific combine in accordance with the United States Supreme Court decree of May 29. The dissolution decree was ordered on the grounds that the combination is a monopoly in restraint of trade.

The unmerger will not cause this company nor any other company to suffer "two or three line hauls" in its shipments, according to the belief of Ford.

"We are emphatically in favor of the unmerger of these two systems. The major transportation evils in California will be solved when the actual separation takes place. The United States Supreme Court has restored to California the competition between railroads that has been our vital need," said Ford in discussing the case today. His statement follows in full:

"The threat that the unmerger of the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific, as ordered by the United States Supreme Court, would produce a series of two-line hauls in California, which would be disastrous to commerce and industry, has had but little effect upon shippers in the State.

"If the claims of the Southern Pacific and its supporters were true, the Niles Sand, Gravel and Rock Company would probably be one of the greatest sufferers in the State, for our shipments, which amount to more than six thousand carloads of material annually, would be subject to two and three line hauls, due to the fact that we ship entirely within the boundaries of California.

"However, we are emphatically in favor of the unmerger of these two railroad systems. The major transportation evils in California will be solved when the actual separation takes place. The United States Supreme Court has restored to California the competition between railroads that has been our vital need.

"Strenuous efforts will be made to nullify in effect the decision of the United States Supreme Court. We have wired the Attorney-General of the United States and the Interstate Commerce Commission our views in this regard, which are that if anything is permitted to hinder or block the carrying into full force and effect of the United States Supreme Court decision, then there would be a real calamity to the future growth and prosperity of our State.

"The decision of the court plainly declares that the two lines shall be so separated that each can compete fully with the other and also that 'the public will be served efficiently.' As to the two-line hauls, I believe that in the working out of the separation, the court will arrange so the shippers will not be forced to pay higher rates because of the unmerger. The Union Pacific has publicly committed itself to this policy, in the event it secures control of the Central Pacific."

Idaho Endorses Rail Separation

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Fred G. Athearn, Western counsel for the Union Pacific Railroad Company, announced today that he is in receipt of telegraphic information to the effect that the Public Utilities Commission of Idaho had adopted unanimously a resolution directing its president to appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington and opposed the continued control of the Central Pacific railways by the Southern Pacific Company.

The Idaho Commission, which corresponds to the California Railroad Commission, will also oppose any move on the part of the Southern Pacific to retain temporary control of the Central Pacific pending final disposition of the case.

Exposition Plans Being Formulated

Plans are already under way for the Monterey Peninsula Industrial and Arts Exposition, to be held next September.

As a preliminary for active work the directors of the exposition held a meeting at Hotel Del Monte on Wednesday evening and had as guests the newspaper men of Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel.

In order to have a more stable and permanent body the directors resolved to incorporate the organization, and to this end a committee consisting of W. H. McConnell, Emmet McMenamim and David Schwartz, was appointed to confer with attorney Fred Treat.

The whole-hearted cooperation of the chamber of commerce of Pacific Grove, Carmel and Monterey is assured.

In attendance at the dinner were Benj. F. Wright, Fred Purner, Fred Treat, Cornelius Botke, Allen Griffin, W. L. Overstreet, W. H. McConnell, Dave Schwartz, William Sandholdt, Emmet McMenamim, James Harper, K. Hovden, A. B. Smith, A. C. Jochmus, F. E. Wood, H. Todd and F. Stonerod.

Carmel Unsurpassed
Now that I've been away
From the pines and the Bay
For a spell,
I feel the dim urge
Of the sand and the surge
And the swell;
And somehow I know
That wherever I go
I'll rebel
At the hum-drum of things
And my thought will take wings
To Carmel.

I may travel far
On the quest of my star—
Ill or well—
I may go East or West—
I may see the world's best—
Hill or dell—
But no matter what sky
Greets my morning eye
I can tell
That there's none that's so blue
As the one that I knew
At Carmel.

I may sail the wide seas,
I may swelter or freeze,
Ere my knell;
I may win or lose,
I may hear glad news
Or hear tell,
But there's nothing so strong
That can ever for long
Hope to quell
The lift of my heart
When at last I shall start
For Carmel.

Reductio ad ___?

"Temperament, (thus W. James), affects the sense
Of sane men's views," and, "draws for each his own
Reflected world,"—(as A. France also frames).
This logic is both excellent and immense,
But takes withal a certain plébeian tone
Which puts at-naught aristocratic claims:
For what respect is due the learned savant
That does not elevate alike the common clod,
If neither sees no further than his nose?
If truth must take an individual slant,
How can we have a universal god,
Or one solution for our several woes?
L'estat 'cest moi, the judge, and all the rest;
I am the real, the other is but guessed.

The Year

Pine Needles

Mrs. Isabel Bunting has taken up her residence in Monterey for the winter.

The attractive little Johnson cottage on Carmelo street has been purchased by Mrs. Margaret Church.

Mrs. Ludovica Lawson returned to Carmel a few days ago. She has been in Santa Barbara for several weeks.

Here for a month's sojourn are Mrs. William C. Codney, Miss Alice D. Smith and Miss Susan Smith. They hail from Cambridge, Mass.

Edward Williams, the well-known mechanic, has returned to Carmel from Los Angeles. He was recently married, and his wife is here with him.

Ralph R. Whitehead, who with his wife and son spent several months here last spring, is again in Carmel. Mrs. Whitehead is on her way here from England.

Residents in Carmel and vicinity are now setting their timepieces by the 8 a. m. siren, which is sounded every morning down at Andrew Stewart's dairy. It's a REAL public service.

The local meat market is in new hands. Owing to the state of his health, Mr. Ross is obliged to retire from the business, and has sold out to G. Noller, who assumes charge on Monday.

Paul Flanders, wife and children are in the Sydney Yard house on Lincoln street for the winter. A nurse and maid are in the household. Mrs. Flanders was formerly Miss Grace Livingston.

Mrs. E. Erskine Hill, who was here about two years ago, when she was Miss Margaret Edie, is here with her son and daughter from Stamford, Connecticut, to visit her mother, Miss Gertrude Edie.

In order to complete organization, elect officers and adopt a name, all business people who attended the last meeting, and several who failed to attend, should be present at the city hall next Thursday evening.

Dr. D. T. MacDougall, director of the Carnegie Institute, has returned from Boston, where he attended the sessions of the American Society for the Advancement of Science. He leaves shortly for the botanical station at Tucson, Arizona.

Mary Austin, who, since her sojourn here last summer, has been in New York and Washington, is on her way to Santa Fe, New Mexico, on an extraordinary literary assignment. As her friends commendingly say, "Mary has gone back to the desert."

The financial statement of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea for the year 1922 has been prepared by City Clerk Saidee Van Brower, and will be presented to the board of trustees at the regular meeting next month, and upon which the finance committee will base its 1923 budget.

Banks taking deposits of Monterey county money during the current year must pay 3 per cent interest, according to a decision arrived at by Supervisor R. A. Sterling, Auditor I. J. Cornett and Treasurer James Taylor, who met in accordance with law to fix the rate. The new rate is an increase of 1 per cent over the rate heretofore prevailing. The order was carried by a vote of 2 to 1, Taylor voting "No."

Professor and Mrs. S. H. Williams have taken the Chamberlain house at Pebble Beach. The Williams are from Berkeley, where Dr. Williams is connected with the physics department at the University of California.

D. L. Dawson, director of part time and citizenship work in the Monterey high school, states that he has decided to hold a class in citizenship for alien men and women on Monday evenings in the high school building from 7:00 to 10:00 p. m.

The monthly financial statement of County Treasurer James Taylor, verified by County Auditor Iver J. Cornett, shows a total balance in the various county funds amounting to $913,267.45, with overdrafts totaling $11,356.07. The statement was filed with the board of supervisors.

Miss Ruth Rice and mother, who have been in Carmel since last summer, went to Los Angeles recently. The Rices came here years ago when Carmel was a much smaller community than it is now. They built the house known to many of the old-time Carmelites as the Rice cottage.

Motoring parties in California this year will find El Camino Real, the recognized route of pleasure travel when California was a part of Spain, thoroughly sign-posted by the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California from San Francisco to San Diego. The first sign was erected recently near Mission Dolores.

A copy of the articles of incorporation of the Monterey Theaters Co., a new concern that recently took over the control of the Strand, Star and Monterey, was filed last week in County Clerk T. P. Joy's office. Its principal place of business is given as San Francisco. The capital stock is $50,000 at $100 per share, and the directors are Robert A. McNeil, E. H. Emmick and M. Naify.
